

Russian Troops Crush Stubborn Hungarian Rebels

Soviets Stamp Out Sparks Of Freedom

VIENNA, Nov. 12 (CP) — Russian troops today methodically stamped out remaining sparks of the freedom rebellion which flamed so brightly in Hungary nearly three weeks.

The Russian troops, estimated at 200,000, carried out their grim task in almost total silence. The little satellite, which almost threw off the Soviet yoke, was still cut off from normal communication with the rest of the world.

Radio Budapest broadcast the news as usual tonight, but there was little information about the hunt for rebel leaders or the armed resistance which apparently continued in some places.

The station did acknowledge that armed groups still controlled some of the roads around Tatahanya, a small mining town west of Budapest. It was silent about the rebel strongholds in the industrial center of Csepel Island, Dunapentele and in Budapest itself.

Threats

At Tatahanya, Radio Budapest said, it was impossible to transport miners to some of the pits because of the threats posed by the armed groups. Nevertheless, the station said 1,800 miners went back to digging coal for a nation gravely short of fuel with winter approaching.

There was no report of developments from the meeting Sunday of the Russian-imposed premier, Janos Kadar, with his predecessor, Imre Nagy, the strange Communist who at the height of the rebellion called for independence, free elections, neutrality, and the complete withdrawal of Russian troops from Hungary.

This could only be taken to mean that Kadar had been unable to win Nagy's support for his program of the oldtime rigged elections, subservience to Moscow and one-party rule.

Nagy's program, while it did not meet the most extreme demands in the nation, had drawn enough support by the time the Russians struck Nov. 4 to make him a prime political asset in any Communist government in the present situation.

Austria Opens Heart To Hungary

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (AP) — A high official of the American Friends Service Committee, recently returned from the Hungarian border, said tonight the people of Austria have "opened their hearts and their purses" to the refugees who poured across the frontier in recent weeks.

Allen White, director of the private relief organization's international centers program, was in Vienna attending a conference of European AFSC regional representatives, when the Hungarian revolt flared. He arrived here by air yesterday.

Five Days

He spent five days at Treiskirchen, near Vienna, where all available personnel was pressed into service to help clothe, feed and hose the men, women and children who crossed into Austria before the border was closed a week ago yesterday.

White declined to comment on the political situation itself other than to observe that the people with whom he talked indicated their decision to take up arms against the Communist oppressors was "quick but not without prior consideration."

"One thing is certain, that events to date have proved that the Hungarian people are prepared to go to any lengths to throw off the yoke of oppression," he added.

White said he was tremendously impressed by the Austrians' unflinching efforts to help the refugees.

Gag Writers Hard At Work Guarding Against Gloom That May Fall Upon World Next Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — Our gag and giggle guys are already busy girding the nation's defenses against gloom next year.

These forward-looking folk have picked a half dozen special occasions to promote laughs in 1957.

You're supposed to trot out your best joke, old or new, to help get your grim buddy grinning again. Of course, a bum one may make him feel worse. That's the chance you'll take.

For example, National Mother-in-Law Day is set for April 28. Its purpose, according to the sponsoring Museum of American Comedy, is to "remind the nation of the necessity of humor."

This and other special days and events in 1957 are pinpointed for all of us—well enough in advance to get prepared—by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Record Answers Letter Mailed By Resort Group

TOP-OF THE POCONOS Assn. has sent a letter to State Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler expressing opposition to the route for the proposed Stroudsburgs Thruway as recommended by the Harrisburg engineering firm of Gannett, Fleming, Corddry and Carpenter, Inc.

The group represents resorts and hotels in the northern part of Monroe County.

John M. Crandall, president of the association, advised Horace G. Heller, general manager of The Daily Record, of the group's stand in a letter dated Nov. 8.

The letter said, in part:

"I enclose a copy of a letter which the Top of the Poconos Association has just sent to Secretary of Highways Joseph Lawler.

"You will note in our letter to him, basis for our interest refers to the fact that we were one of the organizations which was among the original advocates of the by-pass plan.

"We do not wish to interfere in what is Stroudsburg's. However, we do sincerely feel that the proposed route presented by the Highway Department and advocated by your paper, does not provide a proper by-pass for the motorists coming to the mountain resorts in our area."

Letter To Lawler

Crandall's letter to Secretary Lawler follows:

"At a recent meeting of the Directors of the Top of the Poconos Association, I was directed to request of your office further information in regard to the proposed By-Pass at Stroudsburg.

"This request was in the form that it is our desire that your office give further consideration to the other routes proposed and in this connection we would like to have information giving the comparative cost of the other two routes with the present route.

"These routes in our nomenclature here are known as the Godfrey's Ridge route or Hess Plan; the other is the Eagle Valley route.

"Our position in asking for this information is that our organization was one of the early groups who urged that a by-pass be constructed at Stroudsburg so as to permit smooth flow of traffic to the mountain resorts of the Poconos of which we are the center.

"Also, this would permit smooth flow of through traffic to Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and the north which comes through this area. It was our desire to eliminate the congestion with resulting time loss and annoyances which occur during heavy traffic periods within the city of Stroudsburg. It is our considered belief that the proposed by-pass route as now planned, does not properly provide the desired by-pass facility.

"We will appreciate your always careful consideration of our request and hope we may receive the desired information from you promptly."

OF FOUR LINES surveyed for the Stroudsburgs Thruway, only the plan recommended by Gannett, Fleming, Corddry and Carpenter, Inc., highway engineering consultants, would serve all the purposes for which the roadway was intended.

This was pointed out yesterday by Horace G. Heller, general manager of Pocono Record, Inc., in reply to criticism of the recommended plan expressed by the Top of the Mountains Assn.

The thruway, or by-pass, is to be built to "relieve the intolerable traffic congestion" in both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg, previous published reports have said.

Heller recalled that, according to the engineers, "neither the Godfrey's Ridge route nor the Eagle Valley route could possibly serve Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg adequately."

He added: "If, as your organization suggests, the Eagle Valley route were to be developed, in our opinion, both Stroudsburgs would be harmed.

"If either of the Godfrey's Ridge routes were developed, East Stroudsburg would be seriously affected, according to the engineers.

"Only the recommended route, according to the engineers, would serve adequately the three-fold purpose, namely, free flow of through traffic to and from the resorts in the Poconos, Scranton and points in Northeastern Pennsylvania, as well as provide badly needed relief for interborough traffic."

Gamal Abdel Nasser

Nasser Gives Green Light To Police Unit

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP) — President Nasser consented today to the entry of a U.N. police force into Egypt. This cleared the way for the first U.N. army units to take up their peace duties in Middle East battle zones, perhaps as early as tomorrow.

Announcing Egypt's agreement in New York, U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold disclosed he would leave tomorrow for Cairo. Apparently he wants to see that there is no last-minute slip in the arrangements.

Marking time at Capodichino Airport, the U.N. staging base near Naples, Italy, were some 200 Danish, Norwegian and Colombian soldiers ready to take off for Egypt. Transported there by U.S. Air Force Globemasters, they expected to take off tomorrow in Swiss Air Co. DC6B planes which already were on the scene.

Conditions

Still unclear were the conditions if any which Egypt had attached to her agreement.

Nasser was reported from Cairo to have been insisting upon guarantees that British, French and Israeli forces would withdraw immediately from Egypt, that the U.N. police force would stay only temporarily, and that their presence in no way would infringe on Egyptian sovereignty.

Wrapped up in these generalities is the Egyptian position that the U.N. must in no way infringe on Egyptian sovereignty by shifting to itself the control of the British and French now exercise over the northern third of the canal. Egypt also holds that Israel must surrender the Gaza strip of Palestine, as well as the Sinai desert.

Britain and France have stated they were reserving for themselves a say on when they would withdraw in favor of the U.N. force, and Israel has indicated that she has no intention of giving up Gaza.

Baby For Gale Storm

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12 (AP) — Actress Gale Storm, mother of three boys, gave birth to a girl today.

California Taxpayers Assn., to promote "good government at less cost."

These two organizations maintain it takes all the average citizen's earnings up to May 10 every year to pay his taxes before he can start "working for himself."

The cheese people are extra busy next year. They had scheduled separate celebrations for a cheese festival, one-dish meals with cheese, gift cheese shoppers time, and cottage cheese-cling peach salad time.

We also must be prepared for Coffee Day Good Breakfast Month, Krazy and Frankfurter Week, Pickle Week, Raisin Week, Louisiana Yam Supper Season, and special weeks for rice, wine, apples and cranberries. Also rabbit week and butter-baked turkey time.

Come September there's "Rock n' Roll music week."

Heller said the "proposed route was presented by the well known engineering firm of Gannett, Fleming, Corddry and Carpenter, Inc., Highway Department. The Highway Department has approved it, according to our best official information. Under these circumstances, this newspaper has advocated this by-pass.

"We neither created nor advocated the plan. It was done by the above mentioned engineering firm after what we consider some exhaustive studies of four different by-pass proposals."

In recalling that the association now advocates the Godfrey's Ridge routes, or Hess plan, and the Eagle Valley route, Heller said:

"Perhaps you missed The Daily Record's presentation of the engineers' studies of all four plans. . . . The crux of the engineers' recommendation which we published together with their panels on all four of the routes studied is that:

"The recommended route will provide a free flow facility for through traffic on Routes 611 and 209, and in addition will relieve congestion on the city streets of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg. This is the language of the engineers.

"To continue with their language, traffic from the west destined for East Stroudsburg will be able to skirt Stroudsburg, and traffic from the northeast destined for Stroudsburg. (Please Turn to Page Five)

Hungary's Freedom Fades Quickly

By ENDRE MAROTON

BUDAPEST, Nov. 12 (AP) — After 15 years under the heel first of Nazi Germany and then of Communist Russia, Hungary got a whiff of intoxicating freedom in late October.

Then came Sunday, Nov. 4. Budapest was awakened by the roaring of guns. By authoritative estimate, the Russians had moved 4,600 tanks and between 180,000 and 200,000 men into Hungary to crush the revolution.

Against this might, Hungary had nine divisions of 90,000 men or less, equipped with obsolete weapons, and kids, some with guns.

At 5:30 a.m. came Premier Imre Nagy's dramatic radio broadcast.

Words

"The Hungarian army is engaged in battle," he said. "The government is in its place."

The government requested Defense Minister Maj. Gen. Pál Maléter and the chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Istvan Kovacs, to return to Budapest. They had gone to negotiate with the Russians on the details of withdrawal of Russian troops from Hungary. Obviously they had walked into a trap. There is every reason to believe they were arrested by the Russians without any talks taking place.

I stopped two youths on the street, one with an obsolete army rifle.

"Where to, boys?" I asked.

"To fight the Russki," one answered, as they scurried off.

The radio played the Hungarian national anthem, which had been rarely heard for 12 years:

"Whether fate blesses or smites you, here you must live and die."

Istvan Bibó, minister of state, called a news conference at the Parliament building for 11 a.m. Sunday, but newsmen who tried to get there were turned back by Russian troops. So Bibó telephoned his statement to the U. S. legation.

In it Bibó disclosed that Nagy had gone to the Soviet Embassy to protest against the Russian attack and did not return. His statement said:

"My orders to the Hungarian nation are not to consider the occupying army or the puppet government to be set up by this army as legal authorities, and to use all weapons of passive resistance against them."

He asked the Western Powers for "a wise and courageous decision in the interest of my enslaved nation."

"The only means by which world peace can be insured is by taking the risk of a world war," he said.

During the October revolution many of Hungary's dreaded Communist secret police, the AVH, had been shot, hanged or beaten to death. Now many returned with the Russians from hiding. One could see them lurking in corners, helping the Russians search out snipers.

Role

The role of the Hungarian army in this second phase of the revolution is obscure. The leading military figure on the Hungarian side had been arrested. There was no central command on the Hungarian side, military or otherwise. What resistance was given by the army apparently came from local units here and there.

There were at least five real battle areas in Budapest. Again the Kilian (Maria Theresia) barracks was the center of one which included a vast area of shabby tenements. My information is that 7,800 armed men were fighting the Russians there Monday, Nov. 5. The hundreds of youngsters I met in this area were without exception manual workers, not the Fascists, capitalists and reactionary elements accused by the Russians of inciting the revolution.

Ike Issues Proclamation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — President Eisenhower issued a Thanksgiving proclamation today counseling Americans to "be grateful that the foundations of Freedom in our nation grow stronger with each passing year, giving hope to fettered peoples . . ."

In setting aside Thursday, Nov. 22 as a day of national thanksgiving, the President called on citizens to pray this year "not only in the spirit of Thanksgiving but also as supplicants for God's guidance, to the end that we may follow the course of righteousness."

Eisenhower and some of his top aides also began work today on the President's annual State of the Union message, to be delivered to Congress shortly after it convenes in January.

In the middle of the day Eisenhower drove to Walter Reed Army Hospital for a conference with Secretary of State Dulles where he spent 30 minutes. Dulles is convalescing from an intestinal operation for the removal of a cancerous growth.

Message

The State of the Union message sets out the President's legislative program for the year ahead. Some preliminary work on the document already has been done in the government departments and agencies which make recommendations on what it should include.

Sherman Adams, the President's chief aide, was reported to be working with him on the message, as well as Wilton B. Persons, Adams' deputy; Gerald Morgan, White House legal counsel; congressional liaison men and representatives of the Budget Bureau.

In his annual Thanksgiving Day proclamation Eisenhower said in part:

"Let us be grateful that the foundations of freedom in our nation grow stronger with each passing year, giving hope to fettered peoples that they may walk as free men unafraid; that the yield of our soil and the production of our factories have been abundant, enriching our lives and enabling us to share our bounty with less fortunate ones in other lands; and that the forces of nature are being harnessed for peaceful purposes, bringing limitless possibilities of comfort and happiness both to ourselves and future generations."

Salk Vaccine Varies In Strength

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 12 (AP) — Some batches of Salk vaccine may be stronger or weaker than others in creating protection against polio, Chicago scientists said today.

They said this makes it all the more important that children take their third or booster shots. The third shot of what might be a weaker vaccine apparently creates good protection in most children.

A small-scale study indicating possible variations in potency of vaccine from four different manufacturers was reported to the American Public Health Assn. by Howard J. Shaugnessy, Ph.D.; Richard A. Morrissey, Ruth E. Church, M. D., and John L. Neal of the Illinois State Department of Public Health, Chicago.

The potency of single lots of vaccine from each manufacturer was studied on small groups of children in four different areas of Illinois.

Blood Tests

Blood tests were made before and after a series of two shots to measure how well the shots created protective antibodies against polio virus.

Except for children getting one particular lot of vaccine, the antibodies were below the level generally expected, the health team said in a formal report at the opening of the APHA's 84th annual meeting.

Some children might have produced more antibodies because they had already been exposed naturally to the virus, and thus had some antibodies to begin with.

But this probably didn't account for all the observed differences in the effectiveness of the vaccines studied, the scientists said.

A third dose gave a good booster effect in most youngsters who hadn't responded well to two prior shots of the very same vaccine, they added.

Dr. Shaugnessy said larger studies should be made to learn whether there actually are significant differences in vaccines from different makers, or whether lots from the same maker can vary in potency.

The report said it is sometimes forgotten that three shots should be given, and that undue stress is put on failure of only one or two shots to protect some children from paralytic polio.

Summerfield Operated On For Throat Ailment

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP) — Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield, 57, was operated on today for a throat ailment.

His office announced the operation, to correct a "diverticulum of the esophagus," was performed by Dr. Albert Furstenburg at the University of Michigan Hospital, Ann Arbor, Mich. It said no malignancy was found.

A diverticulum is a pouch or sac which sometimes forms in the wall of a body tract.

Hammarskjold To Visit Cairo Scene

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP) — The 11th U.N. General Assembly began its crisis-filled sessions today with a call by its newly elected president to rush efforts to end the troubles in the Middle East and Hungary.

The Assembly chieftain, Prince Wan Waihayakon, 65, foreign minister of Thailand, was elected unanimously to the post in which he will supervise debates on a host of world problems. As he took command, pickets paraded across the street with black banners for the Algerians in North Africa and the Hungarians. This sharply pointed up two grave issues this session must face.

Another sign of the gravity of this Assembly is the presence of more than 40 foreign ministers, the greatest number of such world figures ever to attend the opening of a U. N. Assembly.

In a short inaugural speech, Prince Wan told the delegates and the public in the packed Assembly hall that the compassion of the Assembly went out to the afflicted peoples of Egypt and Hungary.

Decision

He endorsed the decision of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to fly to Cairo this week for a personal inspection of the first stages of the operation of the U. N. emergency international force, Hammarskjold announced at a news conference earlier his plans to go to the Middle East.

Prince Wan called attention to the cease-fire in effect in the Middle East. He saw in this a ray of hope. He said that not so much had been done in Hungary, however, and reminded the delegates there was much to be accomplished there.

The emergency U. N. Assembly which has wrestled with the Middle East and Hungarian problems since Nov. 1 went out of existence when Jose Maza of Chile, president of the Assembly last year, called the new Assembly to order.

The Assembly unanimously elected to membership the three new African countries already approved by the Security Council, Tunisia, Morocco and the Sudan. This brought the total membership to 79.

The general debate, in which the leading delegates give the views of their governments on world problems, is expected to start Wednesday afternoon or Thursday. Acting Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., is expected to outline the U. S. views early in this debate.

Police Force Adds Strength

OLEAN, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP) — The dispatch of a United Nations force to Egypt is an "encouraging move that puts teeth into the U. N.," Herbert Morrison, former deputy prime minister of Great Britain, said tonight.

Unlike other members of the British Labor Party, Morrison did not attack Prime Minister Eden's use of military force in the Suez.

Aggression

Rather, he said, Egypt's seizure of the canal "in itself was an action in the nature of aggression."

Morrison, who resigned last December as deputy leader of the Labor Party opposition in the House of Commons, addressed a meeting sponsored by the Olean Men's Club.

He said he felt the West was losing the propaganda race to Russia and that the West's program was not "quick enough or clear enough."

THE HEART OF the television world is with those four precious "peanuts" from St. John's Orphans' Home in Rockaway Park, Queens, N. Y., on their way to the $25,000 jackpot on "Name That Tune." Two weeks ago they hit the $20,000 mark, which means they'll get that much with their partner, Jo Ann Gildersleeve, the Chippewa Indian from Wounded Knee, S. The shocking problem that the child they have raised for twelve years is not theirs confronts the two Hollywood stars, who learn that at the time of their daughter's birth, their baby was given to someone else.

Tab Hunter stars in "The People Against McQuade," based on "Conflict" at 7:30 p.m. on ch. 6 and 7. A soldier on leave from Alaska is accused of murdering his wife, and the dialogue for the script is taken from the official court transcript of the trial.

"Displaced Deer" is the title of the story on "Noah's Ark" at 8:30 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4. When a hunter brings a wounded fawn to the animal hospital to be "put away," Noah and his helpers attempt to nurse the little fellow back to health.

It is expected that upwards of 2,000 persons will attend the courses this year.

Enrollment in the Financial Management Training Program is limited to selected personnel employed by the Department of the Army, according to Dr. Archie N. Solberg, dean of research and special services, under whose direction the program is operated.

Public, Through U. S. Senator Smith, Triumphs Over Gossip Magazines

There has been an alarming increase in the number of books and magazines published that cater to the seemingly voracious public appetite for "inside information" about prominent people. Among the lowest forms of humanity are those writers and publishers who use outright exaggeration and untruths to whet the interest of their readers in the private lives of their victims.

Most of these victims choose to ignore the matter because they feel it will only tend to bring more attention to the lies being spread about them. But this attitude is playing right into the hands of the writers and publishers who continue their activities knowing full well the reluctance of people to prosecute.

Farm Policy Seemingly Most Effective Issue Raised Against Administration

Of all the issues raised in the campaign farm policy seems to have been most effective.

President Eisenhower's percentage of the votes — higher than 1952 nationally — was less by two per cent in Minnesota, three per cent in Kansas, four in Nebraska, five in Iowa, nine in South Dakota.

In but one state was there a shift large enough to affect results. Missouri, which had voted for Mr. Eisenhower narrowly in 1952, voted for Mr. Stevenson narrowly in 1956.

All of which is proof of discontent in the farm belt over low farm prices, a discontent it did not take an election to reveal.

But it is far short of the farm revolt for Margaret Chase Smith, U.S. senator from Maine, who was attacked in this manner in the book, "USA Confidential," decided to fight back. Not only did she win a $15,000 judgment against the writers and publishers of the book, but they were ordered to buy advertising space in New England newspapers to publicly apologize for slander.

Senator Smith wasn't the only one to gain from this decision. Everyone who believes in decency shared in this victory too.

Thanks to Margaret Chase Smith's courageous action in standing up to those who slandered her name, others may be encouraged to do the same. If they do, it may spell the end for these lowly liars in print.

which Adlai Stevenson had presumably hoped in advocating return to Government guaranty of prices at 90 per cent of parity.

Some farmers obviously were persuaded but the farmers in mass did not buy this return to a system which built up vast farm surpluses and continues to depress farm prices.

The surpluses which remain are holdovers from the fixed-parity system. New measures, instituted in the last four years, have not had time to prove whether they will work or not.

Further action should be on a basis of experience. Restoration of sound conditions on the farm is not merely a matter of justice to the farmer. It is essential to a sound national economy.

Lesson In Money Values To Be Learned From Our Experiences During Depression

Sooner or later, the American people of this generation will rediscover that money is an honorable device to be employed for many purposes, some virtuous and some evil, but that it loses value when its integrity is not respected. The greatest enemy of money, therefore, is dishonesty.

Throughout history, has been throughout which has often debased its value by over-issuance, which has clipped it to lessen its metallic content and which has reduced its purchasing power by dishonest management.

Elliott V. Bell, who edits "Business Week" and used to be Superintendent of Banks in New York State, had much to say on this subject when he spoke to the American Bankers' Association convention, but whether it did the bankers any good to hear him is another matter as they are excessively regulated and over-controlled — almost like the railroads which are in a bureaucratic strait jacket.

Bell added: "There seems to be a very widespread assumption that, having turned over to Government the responsibility for maintaining the economic health of the country, Government, in turn, can simply pass the buck to the Federal Reserve System, and the Fed, in turn, can achieve the goal simply by manipulating the reserves of the banking system and incon-veniencing nobody except perhaps a few Government bond dealers. I have a feeling that so great an enterprise cannot be accomplished quite so simply.

It is questionable whether it can be done that way at all, and the proof that it cannot is that the American dollar is now worth about one-half in purchasing power and that the cost of living is inordinately high during a period of such plenty that overproduction has become an established fact, dangerous to the public welfare and involving our country in an oblique foreign policy based on the assumption that the only way to maintain full employment at excessive wages is to dump between five and six billion dollars of American goods upon the rest of the world for no compensation.

Bell correctly analyzes the cause of the Depression and its cure: "Back in 1929, the discount rate got up to 6 per cent and call money went to 20 per cent but security loans kept right on going up until finally the whole business collapsed and we headed for the Great Depression. Then the Fed struggled for years to bring about a recovery by easy money. The discount rate went to 1 per cent and Treasury bills went to a negative yield. But it was not easy money that finally cured the unemployment of the thirties.

"It was the vast deficit spending of war." The New Deal had no answer to unemployment and was saved from disaster by war. And we have been living through a war economy from 1939 to the present day and we have used money not so much as an instrument of exchange, but as a political device of power, just as we have used taxes not so much for revenue but as a means for the redistribution of wealth.

What is it that we learned from the Depression? Of course, the politicians learned that if it is possible to say that a third of the nation is in poverty, a President can be elected four times; politicians also learned that in times of great troubles, it is possible to fragment a people until they vote in racial, religious and national blocs instead of as individual citizens, exercising the right of choice; politicians also learned that if any special privileges are to be made available, they are to go to those segments of the population which are most numerous and where there are the most votes.

Elliott Bell learned this, which we need to think about today because it applies today: "The events of the Great Depression destroyed the illusion that mere tightening or loosening of the total volume of credit was a sure-fire cure-all for economic ups and downs. The simple monetary explanation of the business cycle withered away to be replaced by more complex ideas of the interrelation of Federal spending, taxes, savings and investments, income, employment and money too. And so the new hope of preventing depressions came to rest not just on central banking techniques but on 'compensatory fiscal and monetary policy'."

When government bonds are down in any economy, the nation is in real, economic trouble.

The Editor, The Daily Record, Stroudsburg, Pa.

Dear Sir: My two oldest children, early teenagers, have a problem which I know they share with many another teen. They need money!!

My particular children are not old enough to have full time, or even steady part-time work. They want the short time jobs, baby sitting, yard cleaning, dog walking. There are many such, but to bring child and job together is chancy at best.

What we should have in town is a kind of junior employment service. A clearing house where the teenagers could register and the prospective employers call for their services.

This, however, is not a job for one person, though one could handle the mechanics once it was established. It needs the backing of some public service group, for there would be some expense to setting up and maintaining it.

It would be necessary to advertise for one thing. There would be forms to print to record preferences etc., as well as for references from both parties. Some system of indexing would be needed to match job with the person to fill it.

There are endless work possibilities in this line. Having a dinner party? Call for a waitress or dishwasher. Feeling under the weather? Call for a dog walker or furnace tender. Going out of town for a while? Call for a plant waterer—you see? It goes on forever.

Of course it would be a big chore to manage all of this. To check the references, to match need with teen. A pay scale would have to be set up too. But I emphatically believe that such a service would be rewarding to all concerned. It could even help check delinquency, for many of the children who run wild would much rather be earning if they could only find suitable employment.

Couldn't we hear from some of you? Job hunting teens, prospective employers, possible sponsors—what do you think of it? A Mother

Women Stockholders In U.S. Business

A newspaper ad inquires: "Are you suffering from pocketbook dyscrasia?" Now that they mention it, I bet you that's exactly the trouble. I'd been wondering if vitamins might help this ailment, paid handbag slugs, matchbooks and 80 other essentials exclusive of money.

The green stuff carries not in my pocketbook, and if this be dyscrasia then make the most of it. One gets right down dyscrastic, just thinking about such things. Or is it dyspepsia?

There is considerable good advice available for those luckless individuals who don't know a debenture from a convertible. (No, no—not the pearl gray, white-wheeled kind! Convertible bonds, we mean.) Mrs. Alice B. Morgan of $64,000 Question fame, who teaches a class in Investments up in Bristol, Rhode Island, is one counselor who believes we should know what to do with surplus savings. Women in particular, she says, might well do some serious market research along with tabulating bridge scores. The New York Stock Exchange also invites public attention to sound investment activity.

Ten million people hold stock in American business; 51.6 percent of them are women, one-third of whom are housewives or non-working folk. Although there are examples of abysmal financial ignorance among women, who for their own odd reasons may not have strong ideas on thrift and sound investments—I'm inclined to believe this 51.6 percent stockholder group could away "price dividend ratios" with the best of them.

The point for us "pocketbook dyscrasia" sufferers to note is—we are among the 10 million? These investors, mind you, are not Fords and Rockefellers—1956 average stockholders owned only 4.25 shares each. And the way I see it, that makes 10 million "capitalists" in the system of free enterprise. Big business is big for 10 million good reasons, whether the investment be $10 or $10,000.

Investor or not, you are the one being asked by reputable investment counselors to consider YOUR financial picture, to study YOUR situation and learn what savings and investments are best. Mrs. Morgan's book, INVESTOR'S ROAD MAP, hammers away on one point:

"Don't let anyone tell you," she says, "it is impossible to learn how to handle your own investments . . . to choose them in the first place and then to keep them alive."

And if you put your wits to it, that convertible might some day convert to a wire-wheeled wagon. I'm for giving it a try!

Air Force Blames Wilson For Lack Of Transports

Washington, Nov. 12 — That promised airlift for the UN police force in Egypt is causing difficulties between the State Department and Air Force.

The Air Force vigorously contends it doesn't have sufficient transport to fulfill this commitment and at the same time perform a number of other urgent jobs confronting it.

Foremost among them is airlifting some 15,000 Hungarian refugees marooned in Austria. That small and war-impoorished country is unable to adequately care for and protect these tragic victims of Russian barbarism. They must be moved quickly, and the State Department is proposing that Air Force Troop Carrier Wings be used for this humanitarian mission.

In the sharp backstage wrangling, the Air Force is placing the blame for its lack of transport planes squarely on Defense Secretary Charles Wilson.

State Department and other authorities are being caustically reminded that one of Wilson's "proudest" economy achievements was slashing the number of Troop Carrier Wings from 17 in 1953 to 11 this year. The last of the six eliminated wings was disbanded only two months ago.

A Carrier Wing normally consists of 45 C-119 or C-124 (Globe-master) planes. The C-119 can transport 75 passengers or 30,000 pounds of cargo; the C-124, 150 passengers or 75,000 pounds of cargo.

Of the eleven Carrier Wings, three are Globemasters and eight C-119s. Six of the Wings are in the U. S., three in Europe, and two in the Far East.

The Big Hassle — General Nant Twining is throwing blunt argument into the backstage dispute over the State Department's demand for carrier planes.

The Air Chief of Staff is sternly pointing out that Wilson's drastic economizing has reduced the number of these transports to such a point that the Air Force would be hard-pressed to meet military requirements in the event of an emergency in the war-threatened Middle East or revolt-seething Eastern Europe.

The Military Air Transport Service is being proposed as an alternative for the Carrier Wings. MATS has around 100 big transports. They are used chiefly by officials and U. S. military and diplomatic missions around the globe. The argument is being made that MATS is best suited for airlifting the Hungarian refugees.

Secretary Wilson's long-controversial slashing of the carrier wings appears headed for more bombarding in Congress, where he has been a frequent target.

Renewal of the rowing with him over this issue has already been set in motion by Rep. Dan Flood (D., Pa.). Re-elected by a big majority, Flood has written Chairman Clarence Cannon (D., Mo.), of the powerful appropriations committee, urging an investigation of the cut in air transports.

"The plain facts are," wrote Flood, "that there is not enough airlift in the country today to transport even one airborne division and its fighting gear to any of our foreign commitments. This is a dangerous and scandalous situation, which we who believe in genuine preparedness must not permit to continue. It means possible national disaster if we do."

"Our country must have an adequate system of national defense geared to the requirements of contemporary warfare, which includes the hydrogen-bomb. On the basis of the information we have before our Appropriations Committee, there is every indication the country does not now have this kind of defense system."

"There are strong grounds for believing that Mr. Wilson is thinking and operating primarily in terms of dollars and cents and not for the nation's security and protection. No greater service could be performed by the Appropriations Committee than fully investigating this profoundly disquieting matter. I strongly urge such an investigation at the earliest moment."

Chairman Cannon, another long-time Wilson critic, has promised Flood to support his probe demand.

Telling Them — An unusual press conference took place in the Pentagon several hours after the bipartisan leaders of Congress were summoned to a special meeting with the President on the Middle Eastern crisis. Col. C. E. Hutchin, aide of Admiral Radford, head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, had a hush-hush talk in Room 2-E-800 with newsmen from three press associations. At this mysterious session, Hutchin told the three reporters that the Strategic Air Command had canceled certain training plans, that the Continental Air Defense Command had been put on a 24-hour alert basis, and similar orders had gone to all commands and forces abroad. Hutchin advised the reporters to attribute this information to "high defense officials" or a "Joint Chiefs source." He also urged that these measures be described as "defensive" and for the purpose of "avoiding our being caught flat-footed in the event the Russians start something."

Varsity 'S' Minstrel Date Draws Near

By Jim Riley

Joe Whalen, WVPO announcer, and many other members of the Varsity "S" Club are currently hard at work preparing for the Minstrel Show to be given at Stroudsburg High School. The show will be given both Friday, Nov. 23, and Saturday, Nov. 24.

The entire affair will feature local celebrities and will be under entirely local direction.

In other words, it is entirely a local show and deserves the support of everyone. All proceeds will go directly to the Varsity "S" Club.

Tickets will be placed on sale this week.

Mrs. Daisy Alliger, one of the finest old ladies in the Poconos, was the life of a party on Saturday night.

Her wit and pep are second to none in the area.

Mrs. Alliger lives in Bartonsville.

Val Robbins, McMichaels, celebrated a birthday on Friday.

Val spent the day working on the new home of Rimrock Studios, which will move to the Bartonsville-Snydersville area in the near future.

John Schoonover, the fat one we mean, continues his outstanding hunting ability.

John and family live just off Chipperfield Drive.

Ben Everitt, Easton, was a spectator at the Stroudsburg-Northampton High football game at Gordon Giffels Field on Saturday.

He was on hand to see nephew Dick run 88 yards with a kickoff return for Stroudsburg's only touchdown.

Reports coming out of Reeder's reveal that there's a hunter in that region who shoots his rabbits behind chicken wire.

I'm told that the only rabbits this fellow can shoot are the ones securely caged.

"Skeeter" Blose, a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, is now teaching at Northern Lehigh Joint School, New Tripoli, Pa.

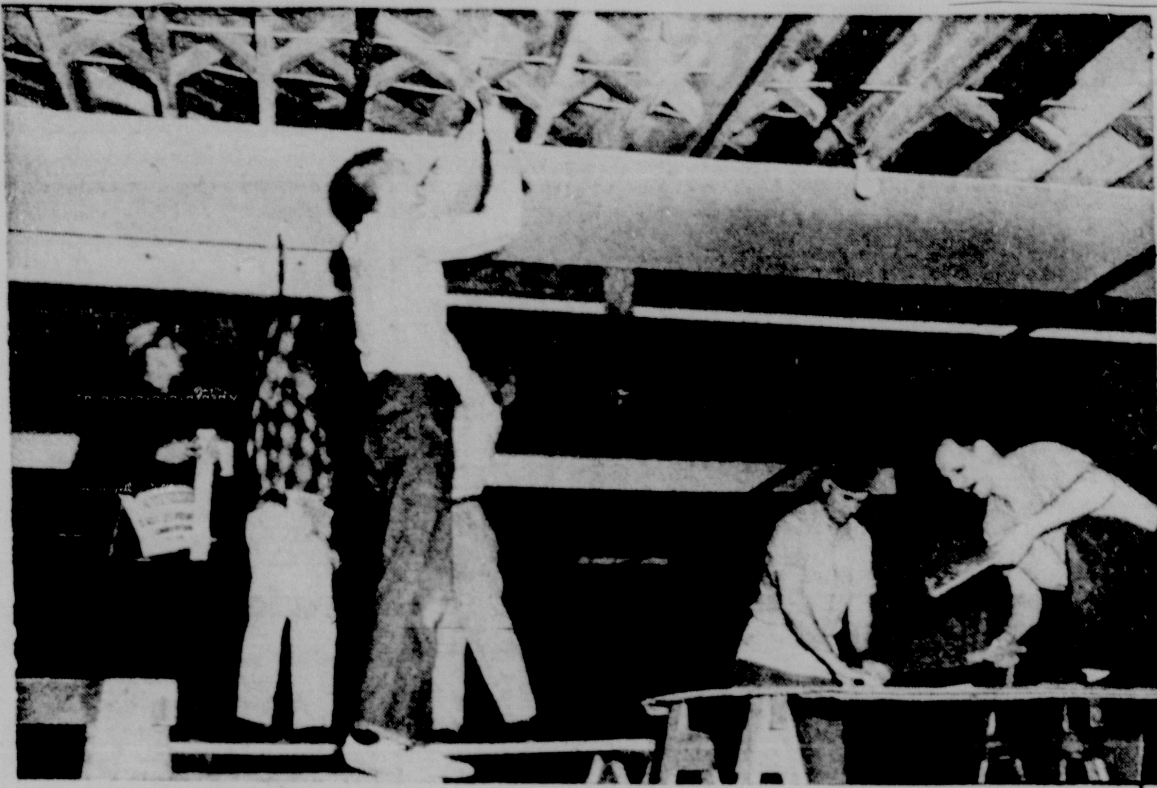

This is a brand new school. Blose is also a graduate of Palmetton High.

The sheep reportedly weighed 186 pounds.

District Four Of Salvation Army Selects New Chairman

MACDONALD HEEBNER, of Clarks Green, Pa., has been appointed Chairman of Region Four of The Salvation Army Pennsylvania State Advisory Board, F. Rhodes Hendered, Chairman of the Board announced yesterday at a meeting of the Executive Committee held at Harrisburg.

Record Replies To Resort Group's Letter

burg on U. S. 209 will be able to bypass East Stroudsburg.

"The heavy traffic between Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg, which now uses a bridge over Brodheads Creek, will have another means of crossing, which would be vital in an emergency.

"The engineers, in their report, state flatly the recommended route will serve more than double the traffic of any other line considered at a comparable total cost.

Feet

"This line has a total of 1200 lineal feet of the maximum five per cent grade, 300 feet less than the Eagle Valley route, and considerably less than the other lines studied."

Heller continued: "It also provides, according to the engineers' statement, a good route for traffic from the west to the industrial area in East Stroudsburg, which presently must use a grade crossing on the main line of the Lackawanna Railroad.

"The engineers point to another advantage of the recommended line over the two studied on Godfrey's Ridge. That advantage is that it provides a route for traffic from Delaware Water Gap Bridge to go north to U. S. 209, without using a grade crossing, and eliminates a route with poor alignment and bad sight distance.

"Their conclusions and recommendations to the State Highway Department, which we understand have been accepted, are: an analysis of the costs and value of the line studied indicates conclusively that the recommended route will cost no more than any of the other lines, will serve local and through traffic better and will provide a necessary additional link between Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg, and therefore should be developed.

"They add in their report to the Highway Department that the development of a limited access facility on this route immediately adjacent to the built-up area of these two communities is recommended."

The letter added: "We at The Daily Record do not profess to be engineers. We never have. We rely only on authoritative engineering opinion such as that expressed by Gannett, Fleming, Condray and Carpenter, and the State Highway Department."

Heller sent a copy of the letter to Secretary Lawler and advised him of continued support of the recommended route.

Gartner Honored By Exchange Club

HELMUT GARTNER, a senior at East Stroudsburg High School and son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Gartner, last night was awarded the "Boy of the Month Award" of the Exchange Club at a meeting at the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

Principal speaker was C. W. "Tom" Sawyer, vice-president of Freedom's Foundation, Valley Forge, who noted that America has progressed far beyond any other nation although it is only 180 years old.

Freedom — Sawyer attributed America's strides to the fact that the American way of life is based upon freedom.

Guests included Mrs. C. Edward DePue, executive director of the visiting Nurse Association of Monroe County; Richard Hall, guest of Horace Walters; Anthony Vogler, guest of Marvin Burris, and Melvin McElwain, guest of Paul Berner.

Dances Add To Fund

PROCEEDS FROM the teen-age dances held Saturday nights at St. Matthew's Catholic Church will provide $200 contributions to the East Stroudsburg Band Mothers, the Stroudsburg Music Parents and St. Matthews School Band.

Keep Fuel Oil
Tank Filled.
Stiff Advises

BETTER KEEP that fuel oil tank filled if you're to avoid trouble this Fall, says Harold Stiff, local distributor for Atlantic Fuel Oils.

The type of warm days - cold nights weather we have been having is recently making trouble for you in the form of moisture condensation due to air space in your tank. This, of course, gets in the oil and eventually reaches the delicate metal parts of your oil burner. Then the trouble begins.

Simple remedy for this condition is merely to keep your Fuel
Tank filled with Atlantic Heating Oils. This top grade product is Triple Refined and formulated to give you clean efficient heat when the heating season rolls around again.

You'll like the courteous service rendered by H. M. Stiff's drivers.

Bethlehem Dynatherm Units Advantageous, Says Weiss

M. F. WEISS of the M. F. Weiss Plumbing and Heating Co., Brodheadville, says, "You can pay more, but you can't buy a better heating unit than a Bethlehem Dynatherm."

M. F. Weiss over the years has installed thousands of heating units in homes in and around Monroe County and a good many Dynatherm heating boilers, and Mr. Weiss can tell you why. You'll get more heat from less oil. When you invest your hard earned money in a heating plant, you want to be sure it's large enough to provide all the heat you need in the coldest weather... that it's modern in design... that it's fully automatic... that it operates economically... that it will require the least personal attention and a minimum of service.

Welded Plant
"The Bethlehem Dynatherm will meet all of these requirements... and more! Acclaimed America's finest oil heat package unit, the Bethlehem Dynatherm is a completely welded steel heating plant with a revolutionary oil burning principle that squeezes more heat out of every drop of fuel... that has the same heating capacity in a fraction of usual boiler size... that is as automatic as your electric refrigerator and television.
And, best of all... you pay little more for the Bethlehem Dynatherm than converting your oil boiler."

Mr. Weiss further states that you can replace your present boiler for as little as $550 a week.
That's a first class installation,
complete—nothing extra to buy!
And, Mr. Weiss adds that he can almost guarantee that you will save this much money on the cost of oil alone. For further proof of this M. F. Weiss Plumbing & Heating will furnish you with the names of families and neighbors that can verify this fact! What more proof do you need than this to convince you that a Bethlehem Dynatherm is the heating boiler for your present or new home.
If you have any plumbing or heating problems call M. F. Weiss for expert professional advice that costs you nothing... he promises that you'll be money ahead in the years to come.

PICTURE OF COMFORT circa 1956... Shown above is a new Bethlehem Dynatherm heating plant installed in the home of the Chester A. Boners of Stroudsburg. Note the convenient uncluttered installation. This compact package heating unit keeps today's home always comfortable, no matter how severe the changes in weather.

"THE 1957 PONTIACS are the most exciting new cars we have offered", says George S. Wagner, Pontiac dealer in Mount Pocono.
From the massive gleaming front to the smart streamlined fins on the rear fenders, the '57 Pontiacs are truly a triumph of modern design and safety engineering. Body design is new with more length and a lower silhouette.

The wide low front end is highlighted by heavy wraparound bumpers and integrated bomb-type bumper guards. Large oval parking lamps are set into the lower part of the bumpers.

Stainless steel trim is used extensively on these new Pontiacs. From front to rear, careful use of this trim gives a racier look. Star Flight styling, in 16 body styles, luxurious color-keyed interiors in 66 combinations, coupled with an even finer improved V-8 engine.
This new engine with horsepower of 252 and 270, and an engine especially designed for law enforcement cars.

Ride Control

Pontiac's great Strato-Flight Hydraulic transmission, is improved to match the increased torque of the new engines and are unmatched for smoothness, quietness, and responsiveness.

Ride control is improved vastly by a combination of refinements in undercarriage. Modified shock absorber valving, new front and rear springs, and 14" wheels make this big difference!

Crowning touch to the new 1957 model is Pontiac's amazingly durable new paint, lucite lacquer, with metallic pigment for depth and richness of color, and will be offered in 19 combinations on the custom models.

"One cannot sum up the many "little" refinements that go to make up this big car," says Mr.
Wagner, "but we would be pleased to show the new line to any who might wish to stop in." George S.
Wagner's Garage features authorized Pontiac sales and service.

India Allies With United States On All Major Problems

U.N. Officer Speaks To Dutch Treat

By Leonard Randolph

FEW COUNTRIES in the world today are understood less by their strong allies than is India.

Last night, speaking before Stroudsburg Dutch Treat Club, a young Indian who has lived through the first days of his country's independence Asoka K. Dutt, tried quietly and logically to clear away some of the confusion.

His major point was made during the question and answer period when he emphasized that India today is an "independent" nation on the international scene and that it is not "neutralist."

On all major policy matters, Dutt said, India has allied herself firmly with the United States and the Western world. This was true in Korea when "India was the first nation to brand the actions of the Communists as aggression and take her place beside the United States." It is equally true now, he said, in the Suez crisis and the Middle East.

The young Indian journalist and press officer for the United Nations, who took an active part with Gandhi and Nehru in the non-violent ouster of British imperialism in his own nation, attempted also to explain Nehru's actions in response to a question from the floor.

Leaders
"Among the leaders of the world today," he said, "nobody has the support of the vast number of human beings as does Nehru. Even the opposition parties (in the Indian government) support his foreign policy. Nehru may be a perplexing man to Americans . . . because there is an American attitude that you are either for us or against us. It is not a very healthy attitude . . . because a man or a nation may agree with you but disagree with the means used to achieve an end."

Nehru's history of active anti-Communism is "well-known," the speaker went on, pointing out that "not too long ago, you Americans were allies of the Russians (but) Nehru was fighting the Communists every step of the way at home."

Much of India's desire to avoid deep involvement in world crises or "other people's wars" is due to the newness of the Indian nation itself as a free democracy, he said. "We want to avoid entanglement because . . . we need time to develop as a nation."

Most of Dutt's formal talk was devoted to a calm, softly-worded and quietly-spoken analysis of India's own rise to freedom through passive resistance. Titled "Cows, Caste and Communism" it hit upon those three major themes in this way:

Gradually new political and religious freedom have brought a more liberal interpretation of the "sacred" superstition attached to the slaughter of cows. In ancient history, he pointed out, cows were of absolute necessity to the economy of villagers who depended upon agriculture for their lives. Because of the imperative need to continually build larger herds of cows, the "sacred" stigma was attached to their butcher. Now the superstition is beginning to crumble because the economy and philosophy of the nation have made it possible.

The "caste system" which, at one time, divided the social strata into four rigid levels: brahmin, warrior, trader and untouchable—was abolished with the inception of the Indian constitution in 1950 so that, today, it is illegal for anyone to discriminate against another because of "caste" and the class markings have disappeared from Indian society.

India has fought a rapid, urgent battle against illiteracy. In the past five years it has built 30,000 schools and there are now 400 colleges and 29 universities. Today 40 percent of the people are going to schools. All persons 21 years old or older are eligible to vote; there are no restrictions. Those who are still unable to read or write, vote by use of symbols. Attempts by powerful men to impress voters with money or buy votes have failed miserably.

Totally Equal
Women and men are totally equal. India has elected more women to its parliament than any other nation in the world. In its first election, in 1950, India had 167,000,000 voters—equal to the entire population of the U.S.

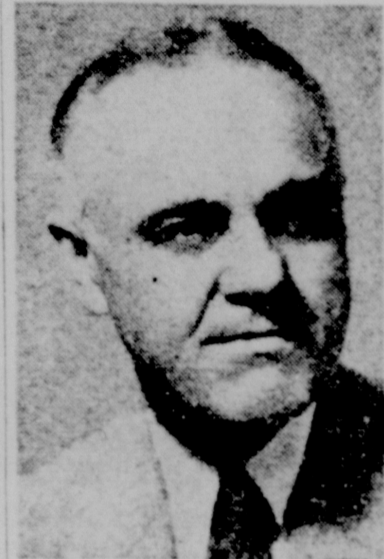

The young nation is also engaged in a harsh uphill struggle to produce a better economy for its people. Its leaders are doing this with the full knowledge that if they do not succeed in materially improving the average Indian's standard of living, Communism may gain a foothold. Because of this struggle, India is also fighting a day by day battle with Red China, during which the Communists in that huge nation are trying to prove they can do the job better through force and violence than the Indians can by peaceful means.

India's success in this life and death struggle, therefore, is of vital concern to every free nation in the world, he said. Because "if we in India can solve our problems and show the path" the 17 or more nations surrounding India

TWO GIRLS, A CHEVY AND A RECORD!

A meaningful achievement in automobile performance

Most automobile performance records you read about these days are set on a track or closed course. The results are usually pretty difficult to relate to the kind of day-in, day-out driving most of us do. Running at safe and legal speeds, a '57 Chevrolet recently chalked up a new coast-to-coast record on the road. And the way it set this record is even more important than the record itself!

A new '57 Chevrolet recently proved it has the qualities most people look for in a car—and proved it on the roads you travel, under the same conditions you drive in every day. It broke the record for the coast-to-coast run from New York to Los Angeles (certified by NASCAR). It was a strictly stock, V8-powered Chevy. It was driven by two young ladies.

This last fact, we think, is even more important than the impressive new record set by Chevrolet. Oh sure, it's nice to know that a Chevrolet can cross the country in one uninterrupted span—and do it in less than 57 hours. It's a tribute to Chevrolet's great-hearted V8 engine and solid road-worthiness that it could travel day and night for 2,913 miles at safe and legal speeds—and better the existing record for the trip by more than three hours. But it's only when you consider that all the driving was done by 98-pound Betty Skelton and her friend Caroline Russ that the true significance of this record run becomes apparent.

When a pair of young ladies step into a car and drive it round the clock to a new transcontinental record, you know that car is easy to drive. You begin to see what we mean by smooth-cruising comfort . . . by nailed-to-the-road stability by sweet-feeling sureness of control . . . by quicksilver responsiveness.

We'd like you to get to know this new Chevy. Stop in and see how beautifully it does all the things a car should do.

QUESTION: What is your opinion of the States' Rights Party and platform?

Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler

Dr. LeRoy Koehler, College President — My idea is that it is not practical. The platform calls for an abolishment of the federal income tax; in my estimation, we couldn't do this without cutting the defense expenditures — which will probably become more costly in the future. It seems that there is a trend toward isolationism in that, they advocate avoiding the world government and an end to foreign aid. In ending foreign aid to less fortunate countries, we would be acting against Christianity which teaches us to help others. I have the greatest confidence in our Supreme Court system; however, they want to curb the power thereof.

The United States has been successful largely because of the two party system. To have another major party would be a menace to democracy.

Dr. John C. Appel, prof. of social studies — Probably the greatest fault of this platform is the fact that there is a movement to curb the power of the Supreme Court. This is contrary to our Constitution, since Article III definitely provides for one Supreme court. To limit the power of the President in making treaties would also be an adverse act with reference to the Constitution, and would make the President subject to more Congressional restrictions.

Russell Jones, banker — I don't see how the federal income tax can be abolished when it is so vital to the budget of the nation. To give the American businesses the benefit of having high protective tariffs would be an important step in promoting the nation's financial security.

It would be somewhat of a handicap to curb the power of the Supreme Court since it is the source of our most reliable and unbiased decisions of law. There is, however, the need for leaving racial problems to the individual states which are faced with the situation.

With reference to world government and foreign aid, I believe that we, as the leader of the free world, should demonstrate our desire for peace to the extent that we shall refer many of our international problems to the United Nations. Also, the United States cannot forget the foreign countries that need our help so direly. The United States can't turn its back on these peoples because of the fact that they are so very near to falling under Communist domination. Since we do not make use of all our farm commodities, the farm surplus could be greatly reduced by giving surplus food to the starving people of other lands.

With reference to "union shops," they should not be prohibited, but there should definitely be a point at which the strong union leaders can be stopped from being a detriment to the financial safety of the business.

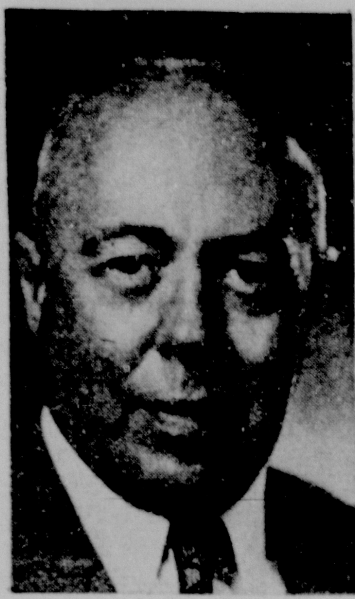

Dr. Charlotte B. Jordan

Dr. Charlotte B. Jordan, M.D. — I am totally opposed to the abolishment of the federal income tax. I feel that those of us who have the capacity to earn should pay taxes within our means to maintain our governmental system. Basically the racial problem can't be left to the individual states. The settlement of this problem will take some time, and must have the intervention of the Supreme Court in order to hand down unbiased decisions.

There is no reason why there can be no federal aid to schools without political influence involved. The Monroe County General Hospital has received federal aid and has greatly benefited from this. Labor unions are essential, and to prohibit the "union shop" in industry would leave out many of the bargaining privileges that labor now has. I do believe that the present draft system presents the problem of having a wasteful amount in the military forces. Too many college students are made to serve for a specified time with the probability that they need never use this training; there is a definite need for revisions in the draft.

Montgomery Crowe, former state senator — I believe that these proposals should be given definite consideration. These recommendations are not practical, and they would not be conducive to better governmental practices. For instance, I don't see how we can cut off our world government practice when it is so necessary, especially at the present time. Our foreign aid program should not be stopped, since there are many countries throughout the world which need our help.

Of course, I disagree with stopping the draft — especially at the present time. There is a need for training in order to have a strong and ready defense which could rightfully protect the nation in the event of an aggressive act against the United States. I don't believe that you could ever prohibit the union shop, because of the fact that the unions' prime purpose is to help the laboring classes. Also, federal aid to education cannot and should not be blocked. There are many backward areas wherein the youths are not receiving an adequate education; and likewise, they do not have the educational facilities to carry on a higher standard of education.

I don't see how immigration could be stopped or suspended when many foreigners have found a refuge in America. Many of these foreign people have proved to be great assets to the United States.

The third major party would only serve as a handicap to the nation; and should not gain a prominent place in our political scene.

All Ships On Alert

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 12 (AP)—The Atlantic Fleet commander has placed all combatant ships and units on a 24-hour alert basis, invoking what the Navy terms "port and starboard watch." This limits liberty to no more than half the personnel of any unit or ship at one time.

Fleet headquarters confirmed today the "50 per cent liberty" order has been issued by Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander of the Atlantic Fleet and the U. S. Atlantic area.

Move—This move in fleet operational readiness means Wright's more than 200 warships—from escort destroyers through super aircraft carriers—and air units are on the line for any contingency.

Navy spokesmen here and in Washington would not elaborate on the directive except to say it was designed to "increase fleet readiness."

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

I envy the one-third of our population who have used the Monroe County library during the past year. That's a lot of readers to be grateful to Elizabeth Kane. Public appreciation for her services were expressed gracefully yesterday by the Woman's Club and will be further implemented by the Business and Professional Woman's Club this week.

What I'd like to do is stop in personally at the library—but it's too dangerous. Let me get by hands on a book now and the housecleaning would stop dead in its tracks, which would be fatal with Thanksgiving coming on.

Personally I prefer a full head to a clean house—which is why the matter got so urgent in the first place, so I'll have to stick with it.

While the Woman's Club was thanking Elizabeth and Lou Shafer and Florence Scholla, they also thanked Isabelle Gleason who did the decorating. Quite apart from the artistic concept, those displays involved several hundred miniature pottery birds and animals. Carrying them to the meeting and back must have been a chore in itself—let alone getting them cleaned up for company.

This obsession with cleaning stems from the fact that I'm now at the stage where everything is in the middle of the floor and you have to do a high hurdle to get to the telephone.

And explains why I felt so incredulous when Dr. Goddard was talking about the four-day week. Do you suppose he meant for housewives, too? Right now I'm glad he's taking care of the worrying about conservation of forests and waters so I can concentrate on the problem of energy—mine, that is.

Club Pays Tribute To Librarian

The growth of the Monroe County Library under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Kane, librarian, was outlined yesterday by Mrs. C. C. Scholla, past president and chairman of the library board over the years, in tribute paid to Mrs. Kane and Miss Lulu Shafer, library treasurer, for their 20 years of service, by the Woman's Club of Stroudsburg.

A framed certificate bearing the inscription "In grateful recognition of the faithful, invaluable and loyal services rendered during the years 1936-1956 to the community as Librarian of the Monroe County Library."

Since 1936, when Mrs. Kane assumed her present post, the library has expanded from two rooms to its present size; from 400 borrowers to 8,000 each year—one-third of the county's population; from a circulation of 13,000 books to 134,000 last year, and probably reaching 140,000 in 1956, Mrs. Scholla said.

She also cited her trips for the bookmobile to 23 schools and 130 groups in the county as well as stops to leave books for shut-ins.

To Miss Lulu Shafer, who has contributed her service as treasurer over that period, keeping the books, the withholding tax and other data with great efficiency, Mrs. Scholla also paid tribute and presented a gift of appreciation from the club.

A rising tribute to Mrs. Scholla herself for her faithful service as library committee chairman, brought members to their feet.

Mrs. Kane also voiced her appreciation to Mrs. Scholla, Miss Shafer, and the other members of the board who have served with her, to the staff of co-workers, to the county commissioners who have supported the library since it became a county institution and to the people themselves whose use of the library has made its growth possible.

Mrs. Kane also paid tribute to the late Miss Blanche Carner, who started the library in 1914.

During the meeting, a letter was read from Miss Arla Joro thanking the club for her visit here this summer as guest from Finland. A memorial resolution in honor of the late Mrs. Walter Stanard was read. Members were asked to bring articles for the Junior Woman's Club bazaar to the January meeting.

They were also invited to attend the open panel discussion on highway safety from 1:30 to 3 today at the college auditorium.

APPRECIATION FOR PAST SERVICES and conservation for future use were the twin themes of the Woman's Club meeting yesterday afternoon. Grouped behind the conservation tea table are three club members who have served the Monroe County Library for 20 years: Miss Lulu Shafer, treasurer; Mrs. Elizabeth Kane, librarian, who was presented with a certificate of appreciation by the club; and Mrs. C. State Forest, Waters Sec. Stresses Conservation In Talk At Local Woman's Club

The role of women in establishing the Pennsylvania Forestry Association and their encouragement, without prejudices of the conservation efforts of the Department of Forests and Waters brought the state secretary of the department to speak yesterday at the meeting of the Stroudsburg Woman's Club.

Dr. Maurice Goddard, Pa. Secretary of the Dept. of Forests and Waters, told of the 25 women who, in 1886, meeting in Philadelphia, paved the way for the Forestry Association, and later the development of the state department.

Conservation, "the use of raw material without abuse," is not new, Goddard said, but failure to apply its principles has been responsible for the destruction of many an ancient empire. In this country, only 200 years old, we have lavishly expended much of those resources, he warned.

These resources must be used, but used without waste, he said. With the prospect within the near future of the four-day work week, a median income of $6,500, and a population rising from 167 million to 300 million, the demand for raw material and for land will become increasingly acute.

Land cannot be made but its use must be controlled either through voluntary or governmental safeguards.

"We must live up to the unwritten contract between the dead, those now living and those unborn to leave something besides debts and depleted resources," he said.

Forests are among the most important of those resources, he said, pointing out that 52 per cent of Pennsylvania is forested, with Monroe County having 80 per cent of its territory in forests. The state owns one-fourteenth of the forest land in the state, he said.

Through the proper harvesting of its trees, the Forestry department has not only been able to provide basic raw materials for new industries, improve the forests, and make them more efficient water shed protectors.

Money for Monroe
There is money available for three major projects in state forests in this area, he said, including $98,000 in Tobyhanna Forest; $168,000 in Promised Land, and $125,000 in Snow Hill. Moreover, the Forestry Department is co-operating with the Fish Commission in the lake they have purchased in Goudsburg to provide access roads and a beach.

With the demand for water doubling every 25 years, the full use of water is imperative, he pointed out, and dams, such as the one proposed at Wallpack Bend to prevent wasted water in floods, and treatment of water so that it may be returned unpolluted to streams are major problems.

A question period followed Dr. Goddard's talk. The club rooms had been decorated in the conservation theme by Mrs. John Glasson, and Mrs. Edward Knob, conservation chairman, pointed out highlights of the decorations. Mrs. Claude Leister, who presided at the meeting, introduced Dr. Goddard.

The tea table was also decorated with a wild-life setting, with even the cookies in animal shapes. Mrs. Oscar Liljenstein and Mrs. T. Manning Curtis poured. Mrs. John Glasson, Mrs. Bernard Peters and Mrs. William Hawn were chaperones.

Area High School Students Discuss Up-To-Date Topics

Plea Noted In Answer Of Students

Greene-Dreher-Sterling
High School
Newfoundland

By Thelma Skelton

QUESTION: Do many young people you know indulge in alcoholic beverages?

Lewis Butler—Yes, I know of many cases in our own school who you might say participate regularly. It seems to be a habit. With others, it seems they drink for the idea of being different or showing off. For still others they think they can have a better time after they have had a drink or two. It makes them more carefree, and they have less to worry about. This, of course, leads to more accidents on the highways. But the worst fault is that of the bartender who sells alcoholic beverages to anyone under the age of 21.

Ronald Robacker—I know several boys in our school who, in the past, have used alcoholic beverages. But I know some of these have ceased the practice completely. I imagine a few still do take a drink now and then, although I haven't heard of any incidents lately.

Linda Gary—Some, it seems to me that more and more of the younger people are now going for alcoholic beverages. Some of them think it's smart and do it just to keep up with the crowd. Others claim that there isn't any place for them to go where they can sing and have what they call a real hot time.

Robert Haag—Yes, I know some young people who drink alcoholic beverages. Most of the time, though, it is not their fault. Either their parents drink, or they get in with a gang and don't want to be called chicken. It is the parents' job, with the teenagers help, to curb the sale of alcohol to teenagers.

Emogene Schoenagel—Most all my friends indulge in alcoholic beverages to some degree. Some think it is smart and others do it to go along with the rest of the crowd. There is no actual enjoyment in drinking but it sort of shows that they are growing up. Drinking is the cause of most of the trouble, not only in our town, but in others. If the dealers refused to sell to minors the younger generation would be a lot better off.

(Supervising Principal Leland Cramer noted in most of these responses an urgent plea on the part of these teenagers to prevent the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors. He added: "This is not their responsibility. It is the duty of adult citizens to insist that law enforcing agencies of the government perform their assigned functions.")

Records Mark Season Of Christmas

By Joe Webster

Program Director WYPO—THE CHRISTMAS season is just around the corner but the record companies are finished with it. They've shopped around for Christmas novelty tunes and Barry Gordon, juvenile recording star will be represented this season with a ditty called, "I Like Christmas, I Like It, I Like It." Last year he did "I'm Gettin' Nuttin' for Christmas."

Cap Caloway's little girl has recorded "Dear Santa, Have You Had The Measles?" And there will be many more.

"Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" is back . . . in about 10 old and new releases, including the "Cadillac" treating him to a rock-'n'-roll beat. Aside from the novelties you'll be able to shop for some really good Christmas records, singles and LPs.

Bing Crosby's plug tune will be "I Heard the Bells at Christmas" . . . Gene Autry has recorded "Everyone's a Child at Christmas" . . . The Andrews sisters have a new single entitled "Hosanna, Hosanna."

In the LP department Fred Waring fans will once again enjoy "The Song of Christmas" which has been reissued and also a new version of "Christmas Time" which has been made into a 12-inch LP containing some of the most beautiful Christmas carols superbly performed by the Pennsylvanians.

Pat Boone will have a Christmas album along with Spike Jones . . . Perry Como . . . Monty . . . Roger Williams . . . Bing Crosby . . . Lawrence Welk and a great many others. Also there will be available the original cast album of a TV show called "The Singiest Man in Town."

In addition, there are bound to be late entries . . . but it seems safe to say that the "Big" Christmas hit of 1956 has already been written. It's up to the public to decide which one it will be. Right now Elvis Presley is way out in front with "Love Me Tender," "Don't Be Cruel" and "Love Me."

UP AND OVER — Teen-age spectators thrilled to the feats of skill exhibited by the Slatington High School tumbling team at the recent district meeting of Senior Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Clubs at the YMCA in Stroudsburg. One of the performers is caught in midair by the camera a split second after being flipped over by his companion (shown on the gym mat). Incidentally, he landed on his feet. (Staff Photo By MacLeod)

Children Flunk Parents In Modern Day Course

By Eugene Gilbert
President of the Youth Research Organization

WHILE MOM and Dad struggle bravely to pass as up-to-date parents, they are being flunked, wholesale, by their children.

This probably will far parents in an age of scientific child-rearing and manuals on adolescent psychology. But the fact remains that to a large group of young people, today, parents seem as old-fashioned as their own parents probably seemed to them.

One of our nationwide surveys of teen-agers' opinions on parental manners, morals and habits shows that 49.1 per cent of the girls and 40.6 per cent of the boys regard Mother as slightly antiquated—particularly in her views on courtship and sex.

Similarly, 44.3 per cent of the daughters and 35.9 per cent of sons consider Dad a captive of the past.

While more than two-thirds of the youngsters questioned gave their parents a clean bill of behavior, the minority took potshots. They chided mothers for chattering too much, being sloppy housekeepers, and dressing unfashionably.

Fathers Criticized

Fathers were rapped for poor grooming, faulty table manners, and—occasionally—for drinking more than they should.

One interesting sidelight of the survey was that girls tend to be more critical of their parents than boys—and yet are more willing to cast their lives in the same mold as their parents'.

In the big group of youngsters who don't think their mothers quite modern enough, one 16-year-old girl complained:

"She always says I'm too young to know this, too young to know that. When will I be old enough—when I'm a grandmother?"

A 17-year-old boy grouched: "Mother tells me every time I go out on a date, 'Be sure and conduct yourself properly. None of that necking business, that's not for refined young gentlemen.' Does she think we live in the age of Queen Victoria?"

Many girls objected because their mothers frowned on good night kisses.

"I've often tried to explain to my mother that spending five minutes outside our front door with my date won't ruin my reputation for ever and ever, but she is sure that it puts me in a 'compromising position,' one teenage daughter lamented.

Girls who put their fathers in the old-fashioned category cited Dad's lukewarmness toward their boy friends as evidence.

"None of my boy friends can satisfy my father," an Oregon girl said. "He thinks boys should click their heels and kiss my hand when they enter the house. Maybe in his day, but certainly not in ours."

Other counts in the arraignment: Father's "hush-hush" attitude on sex; disapproval of smoking; reluctance to let daughter drive the car; and plain old-fashioned spanking.

Doesn't "Spare the Rod"

"That 'spare the rod, spoil the child' technique went out with the horse and buggy, but with my Dad," one youngster grumbled.

Others found Father downright medieval in his insistence on studying.

Gripes over "old-fashioned" notions apart, however, 74 per cent of sons and 70 per cent of daughters reported they had no fault at all to find with their fathers, while 76.1 per cent of boys and 61.7 per cent of girls felt that way about their mothers.

Others, however, answered affirmatively when asked whether there was anything they disliked about their parents in addition to old-fashioned attitudes.

A Brooklyn lad said his mother "always acts like my friends are in the way. It gets so they don't want to come to my house anymore."

Embarrassment at mothers who don't dress stylishly was summarized by this 17-year-old youngster's reply:

"I don't expect mother to look like a fashion model, but I wish she would dress a little more in the 20th and less in the 18th century. She wears old lady clothes and she's not even 40."

Other criticisms: Mother doesn't show enough understanding. Is short-tempered, is bossy and nags, can't be reasoned with and—a glaring mistake in teenagers' eyes—"gets personal in public."

Fathers were taken to task for, among other things, bad temper, being inconsiderate to their wives, dubious etiquette, stinginess, and poor taste in clothes.

While girls predominated in the complaint department, 37.3 per cent of them would be content with lives similar to their mothers'. Only 10.8 per cent of the boys care to pattern their lives after Pop's.

"Mom has a beautiful life," one high school girl said. "A happy marriage and three children. What more could anyone want?"

Some typical comments from the girls who want a better life than their mothers':

"I wouldn't want to be such a slave." . . . More children and more money. "More culture, and not so many surface worries."

From the boys who deem the fathers' way of life inadequate:

"I don't want such a meager, struggling existence." . . . He's neurotic. "I'd be less strict with my children, and give them more."

"More education, and more adventure."

Pius High Dancing Trend Differs

Pius X High School

Roseto

By Phyllis Ann Comunale
QUESTIONS: "What do you think of rock 'n' roll dancing?"
Connie Trigliani — I disapprove of rock 'n' roll dancing because in most cases the actions are vulgar, animalistic and suggestive. A teenager who indulges in rock 'n' roll dancing to its fullest is definitely a bad example of our American youth.

Joseph Sylvester — Many older people condemn our interest in rock 'n' roll dancing, but I wonder if they really know what it is. Our "moderate" version of rock 'n' roll is simply the Charleston, a la 1956, and I like it.

Pina Trigliani — I disapprove of rock 'n' roll dancing because most of the rock 'n' roll dancing I've seen has been carried to animalistic extremes.

Patricia Renaldo — I like rock 'n' roll dancing a lot. The only thing I don't like is to see the teenagers go to the extremes. Some of them look pretty ridiculous at times.

Philamina Pagano — Moderate rock 'n' roll dancing is to today's teenager, as the Charleston was to our parents. It is just a fad that will die away when something new is introduced.

Roselind Lairo — Rock 'n' roll is a new beat in music, and dancing. It's all right when it's not carried to the extremity of vulgar and animalistic ideas.

Library Lists Many New Romances

By Carolyn Shaffer

YOUNG PEOPLE'S LIBRARIAN
ROMANCES, mostly new ones, found on our Young People's shelves are as follows:

The Boy Next Door by Betty Cavanaugh — Betty Cavanaugh charts Jane's fumbling course as she struggles to achieve popularity with boys to whom she never before gave a thought. She makes us live and breathe and suffer and finally rejoice with Jane.

Puppy Stakes by Betty Cavanaugh — You'll like Hugh and Jennifer, shy English refugees; Stephen, Jane's cousin and rival; Aunt Cleo and Uncle Mark, with their contagious enthusiasm for a dog. Jane's visit to the Hall is a never-to-be-forgotten experience for her—and for you.

Spring Comes Riding by Betty Cavanaugh — How Meg discovered the secret of popularity, gained new poise, and was able to cope with her more glamorous sister is told in a true-to-life story done in the best Cavanaugh fashion.

Two's Company by Betty Cavanaugh — Another exciting romance.

Fly Away Gilda by Janet Lambert — Girls from twelve to sixteen will recognize themselves and their "gang" in this story which speaks to them in their own language — Gilda and her enchanting group of teenagers have their serious side, as they tumble with ideas, attitudes and principles — trying their wings — in the task of growing up.

A Song in Their Hearts by Janet Lambert — Although the roads of two couples (Tippy and Peter Jordan, Candy and Barton Reed) seem utterly divergent at times, both ultimately lead to happiness and a more mature understanding.

Hospital Zone by Mary Stolz — Set in a training hospital, this is the story of Honey Kirkwood, a nineteen-year-old student nurse. Her world alternates between the "shell-like" seclusion of the Eighth Floor Private and the limitless possibilities beyond its corridors.

The Day and the Way We Met by Mary Stolz — This is the story of Julie Cannon, the younger sister of the heroine of Mary Stolz's earlier book, Ready or Not. With her usual insight and skill Mrs. Stolz has portrayed an American family with truth, perception and humor.

The Night of the Hurricane by Elizabeth Ladd — How Judy earned money for a gift is the major theme of this electric story, but interestingly with it are the minor themes of wind and weather, the gates of autumn and the snows of winter.

QUESTION: "Should students be given time off during school hours for religious education?"

Patsy Plantz — Yes, I think they should be given time off during school hours because I think if they were they would understand the Bible better and there would be better attendance at churches. Also there would not be as much crime.

Janice Kuhnbecker — No. Not any more time except for reading scripture. Everyone can go to Sunday School and Church on Sunday for religious education. In school there are too many faiths to be considered.

Donald Zittlenmeyer — No. Students have Saturday and Sunday for religion and if they wish they could have religious education after school hours. Because of the different denominations it would be difficult for the students and the teachers. When one group would leave others might stay because they have no desire for religious education.

Roger Smith — Yes, Because some of the students of public schools don't go to Church and Sunday School and if they were taught it in school they might realize the need for education.

Annie Maesay — No. They should all go to Church on Sunday and attend Sunday School classes where they can get their religious education. Although the religious education would be helpful to a lot of children because some don't go to Church to learn about religion. I think though that the children should all go to Church faithfully and they wouldn't have to have religious education in public schools.

Luther Frable — No. I personally think students should only have normal classes and live their religion in every class.

Pocono High Majority Likes Rock 'N Roll

QUESTION: "What do you think of rock 'n' roll dancing?"
Dot Besecker: I think it is terrific because I love to jitterbug. I don't think there is anything wrong with rock 'n' roll dancing, except for the fact that it is sometimes carried to extremes.

Philip Vishnesky: I don't like rock 'n' roll dancing! I think it is silly; I don't see any sense to it. I would far rather round dance.

Judy Singer: I like it. Rock 'n' roll music has a good beat and much rhythm for dancing. However, the dancing is sometimes overdone.

Ray Hartman: I definitely like it. I think rock 'n' roll dancing is good entertainment for our kids.

Ed Salzer: I'm all for rock 'n' roll dancing. I think it is a means for kids to let off steam while dancing that could be left off in fighting or running around with cars.

Mickey Peduto: I think rock 'n' roll dancing is up-to-date and real "cool." I like it because the music has pep and rhythm. When you hear it, you just have to start dancing. I believe rock 'n' roll is more or less a fad and it will have its ups and downs.

Boardman Is Easy Victor Over DeMarco

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12 (AP)—Larry Boardman, young Marlboro, Conn., lightweight, belted rough-house Paddy DeMarco from long range tonight to win a unanimous 10-round street-corner type brawl at the Arena. Boardman weighed 140, DeMarco 143.

DeMarco, 28, the tough former lightweight champion from Brooklyn, turned up every roughhouse trick in the book as he attempted to panic the kid from the Nutmeg State into fighting Paddy's style.

Boardman, 20, however, kept his head and when he could tear himself loose from DeMarco's bear hugs and mauling, he peppered the New Yorker with hard rights and sharp left hands from long range.

Scoring
The scoring under Pennsylvania's newly adopted point system showed Judge Nate Lopinson with 48 for Boardman and 39 for DeMarco; Judge Jimmy Mina, 49-41; and Referee Dave Beloff 49-39.

'Skins Owner Sought Out On Transfer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP)—George Preston Marshall, president of the Washington Redskins, said today he has been approached about shifting his National Football League club to Buffalo, as well as to Louisville.

Marshall said last week that Louisville interests had made a "fantastic" offer for the Redskins' franchise. He said then that despite the tempting proposition he was prevented from considering a move by a lease on Griffith Stadium that has four more years to run.

Same Reaction
He reacted the same way to the Buffalo approach, Marshall said. Aside from the stadium contract, Marshall has frequently expressed a liking for Washington.

Kentuckians have since asked the Philadelphia Eagles and Pittsburgh Steelers to move to Louisville. The Steelers also are considering a Buffalo offer.

NFL Commissioner Bert Bell said yesterday Buffalo was interested in any club in the league. Marshall described it as "wonderful territory."

Happy Princess Jamaica Victor

JAMAICA, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—Mabel D. Lewis' Happy Princess ran off and hid from 13 rivals to win the 25th running of the $24,100 Interborough Handicap before an Armistice Day throng of 28,729 at Jamaica Race Track today.

The 4-year-old daughter of Princequillo-Too Sunny, ridden by Hedley Woodhouse, scampered the six furlongs in the last time of 1:10.4-5 in winning by 6 1/2 lengths. Reginald N. Webster's Soreless necked Elbel D. Jacobs' Searching for the place. Then there was a gap of three lengths to Mrs. Louis L. Voigt Jr.'s Solar System.

Happy Princess, given moderate support in the wagering, returned the across the board mutuals of $14.20, $7.10 and $4.40.

More 2 Points
Tennessee rolled up 1,446 points to Oklahoma's 1,444. Michigan State was in third place with 993 points.

Georgia Tech dropped to fourth on its defeat by Tennessee. The Texas Aggies held tight to fifth on the strength of a 33-7 decision over Southern Methodist and Ohio State moved up a peg to sixth by thrumping Indiana 35-14.

Iowa Gains
Iowa made the most startling gain, all the way from 15th to seventh by its 7-0 conquest of Minnesota. Idle Miami remained eighth, Syracuse clung to ninth by bouncing Holy Cross 41-20 and Michigan again rounded out the top 10 with a 17-7 victory over Illinois.

The second ten: Oregon State, Florida, Clemson, Southern California, Navy, Pittsburgh, Minnesota, George Washington, Mississippi and Princeton.

U.S. Quintet 'Should Take' Russian Five

MELBOURNE, Nov. 12 (AP)—U. S. college teams could beat Russia's Olympic basketball representatives and America's towering Olympians should take them easily, a group of Americans who played the Reds in a practice game said today.

The American team was made up of former college players now working as Mormon missionaries in Australia. The game was staged at an armory near Olympic Park, and while it proved the Russian courtmen are not as formidable as four years ago, it also emphasized that somebody had better watch his arithmetic.

Score Difference
At the end of the game the American scorekeeper said the Soviet boys had won 90-59. The Russians said the score was 101-39.

Art Larsen's Condition Is Seen Critical

CASTRO VALLEY, Calif., Nov. 12 (AP)—ART LARSEN, 31, former National Amateur tennis champion who was injured Saturday in a motor scooter accident, remained unconscious and in critical condition today.

An Eden Hospital spokesman said a three-hour operation Sunday disclosed Larsen had suffered a ruptured brain artery.

Larsen's imported Italian motor bike overturned on the Eastshore Freeway near Hayward. Police found him several hours after he had started from Hayward for his San Leandro home.

Net Inventor Is Dead At 82

BEAMSVILLE, Ont., Nov. 12 (AP)—The man credited with inventing the goal net in hockey, William D. Fairbrother, 82, died yesterday.

A goal tender for Beamsville in the old Southern Ontario Hockey Assn. about 1900, Fairbrother had a net made by a fisherman and strung it on his goal posts. The idea was immediately adopted by the association and spread.

Use of the net greatly reduced the number of disputes arising from goal umpires' decisions.

Miami Headed For Sugar Bowl?

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12 (AP)—Paul E. deBlanc, president of the Midwinter Sports Assn., said today Florida's University of Miami is being given serious consideration for the No. 2 spot in the Sugar Bowl football game.

It was understood that Tennessee which Saturday topped Georgia Tech 6-0 had received an unofficial invitation to play in the New Year's Day game.

DeBlanc indicated today that, based upon present records, the only thing stands in the way of an invitation to Miami is the NCAA suspension against the school. It is reported the suspension will be considered at the current NCAA meeting in Detroit.

Baker Withdraws From Garden Bout

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Bob Baker, Pittsburgh heavyweight, was forced to withdraw today from Friday's Madison Square Garden match with Harold Carter of Linden, N.J., sending matchmaker Billy Brown scurrying for a substitute.

The International Boxing Club said Baker had suffered a virus attack. If a suitable sub cannot be lined up, an entire new match may be made for the date, subject to approval by the New York State Athletic Commission.

New Football History Book Termed 'Colossal'

By Whitney Martin

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—We have just been perusing an advance copy of the most mammoth, colossal, not to say stupendous tome on football we believe ever has been written, and haven't made a dent in it yet as far as completing it is concerned.

It is "The History of American Football" (Prentice-Hall) $12.50 and it was authored by Allison Danzig, learned sports writer of the New York Times who must have spent years compiling the information it contains and which is so entertainingly presented. As we have mentioned, our deal with the book reviewer is that we don't review books and he doesn't write sports columns, but on rare occasions a volume is published which we can't ignore. This is one of them.

To try to give an idea of the contents in a few hundred words is like trying to give an idea of what is in the sea by scooping out a cupful of water. All we can do is give a general idea of the text of the 525 large pages, well sprinkled with 356 photos.

From Beginning
Danzig has taken the game from its very beginning down to the present time, following its evolution in minute detail. The great

Lane Dickers With Bruins For Bob Rush

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 12 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals have started trade talk with the Chicago Cubs in an effort to obtain Bob Rush, 20, a righthanded pitcher.

Frank Lane, general manager of the Cards, was in Chicago yesterday for what he called an "exploratory conversation" with John M. Holland, Cubs general manager.

Lane, in a telephone call here to executive assistant Bing Devine, said the Cards had decided to begin negotiations when Holland announced that Rush was available for trade.

Rush posted a 12-10 record for the Cubs last season with a last-place club and had a 3.19 earned run average.

Seek At Dark
The Cubs reportedly are interested in veteran shortstop Alvin Dark, whom St. Louis obtained from the New York Giants in a big four-for-four swap last season.

Sandy Decisions John L. Sullivan

NEW YORK, Nov. 12 (AP)—Randy Sullivan of New York did enough damage with his accurate left hook to whip free-swinging John L. Sullivan of England tonight on a unanimous decision in a 10-round match at St. Nicholas Arena.

Sullivan weighed 161, Sandy 157 1/2.

Hungarians Fly Own Flag In Olympic City Outburst

MELBOURNE, Nov. 12 (AP)—A group of impetuous Hungarians hauled down the Communist Hungarian flag at the entrance of Olympic Village today, cut out the Communist emblem with a pocket-knife, and raised a homemade Nationalist banner with ringing cries of "Down with Communist flag" and "Long live free Hungary."

This action set off another tempestuous day in this Olympic city climaxed when a cheering bouquet-tossing crowd of more than 2,000 gathered at Essendon Airport at supper-time to greet a plane-load of 91 athletes and team officials completing the Hungarian delegation.

Ex-Hungarians
The throng was made up mostly of ex-Hungarians who left the Iron Curtain after the last war to settle in Australia.

They wore Hungarian colors, red, white and green, with a black strip of mourning, carried flags, chanted war cries and burst into the strains of Hungary's national anthem.

Julius Hegyl, pleasant white-haired chief de mission, who arrived on the plane with the stars of the team, said at a press conference later that he had given instructions from Darwin for the replacement of the Communist flag with that of the nationalist colors.

Hegyl Says
Hegyl, who refused to eringe from political questions although knowing the Communist regime had been restored to power at Budapest, told the impromptu press conference:

1. That shortly before the team left Prague he had asked Otto Meyer, chancellor of the International Olympic Committee to substitute the National flag for the Communist one as an official banner for Hungary's team.

2. That there were no political differences on the present team and that all members are "fine patriots" and would return home as soon as the games are completed. There had been rumors that many athletes, particularly single ones, would seek sanctuary in Australia or in parts of Europe.

3. That Hungary's athletes would put out their best efforts for their country no matter who was in charge of the government.

Aussie Reports
That reports published in Melbourne papers that Czechoslovakia had threatened to put the team in concentration camps unless it went to the games were false. This report also was heatedly denied by Czech officials here.

5. That Sander Tharos, who set world marks in seven distance in the last 20 months was left behind because "he was ill."

Hegyl, who has been sports minister in Hungary for many years, seemed little surprised or concerned when told of the early morning flag-swapping incident at the village which threw Olympic officials into a temporary tizzy.

New Mystery Of Russian 'Hat Lifter'

MELBOURNE, Nov. 12 (AP)—What happened to Nina Ponomareva, Russia's "hat girl?"

That was an intriguing question in the Olympic Village today as a new hide and seek mystery built up around the well-nourished Soviet discus thrower whose penchant for pretty bonnets almost got her put in the clink in London last summer.

Shoplifting
She was accused of selecting five hats in a London shop and neglecting to pay for them.

A Pan-American Airlines pilot said today she was among a plane-load of Russians he brought here Friday night. Russian officials, playing it cozy, insist she was not.

Capl, Robert Buschman of London insisted he met and chatted with her on the flight.

The Pan-American office said their passenger sheets showed no Ponomareva listed. But it might be significant that the plane which supposedly carried the "hat girl" also was the only one carrying two Soviet diplomatic representatives.

Resets World Swim Record
HILVERSUM, Netherlands, Nov. 12 (AP)—Atle Voorbij, 16, recaptured today the world record for the 100 meters butterfly swim which she recently lost to American Shelley Mann of Arlington, Va.

Atle was clocked in 1:10.5. Her previous record was 1:11.9, from which Miss Mann clipped one tenth of a second in the American outdoor championships last summer.

Satterfield by KO
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 12 (AP)—Bob Satterfield, 194, heavy-fisted Chicago heavyweight, scored a knockout over Claude Chapman, 191, of Boston tonight in the seventh round of their scheduled 10-round fight. Trailing on points, Satterfield caught the New England heavyweight titlist with a vicious right to the jaw that sent Chapman tumbling to the canvas almost out of the ring.

Olympic Star Leads Yanks In Worship

MELBOURNE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Rev. Bob Richards, pole vault and decathlon star, conducted worship services for America's Olympians today as a quiet Sabbath punctuated the growing tensions of the Olympic games.

The ordained minister, who will be competing in his third Olympics, spoke on the subject of peace before most of the 247 American athletes already on hand for the mammoth sports spectacle.

Rafer Johnson, towering decathlon hope from Kingsbury, Calif., and Jim Graham, pole vaulter, from Tulsa, Okla., gave prayer at the solemn service.

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 12 (AP)—The tricolor of France flew high again this grey afternoon as Master Boing overhauled Mister Gus from the United States in the stretch and pulled away to an exciting victory in the fifth running of the $100,000 Washington, D. C., International at Laurel Park.

By The Associated Press

THE HEAVYWEIGHTS and lightweights share top interest on a busy week's boxing program that also includes an appearance by former world champion, Kid Gavilan.

Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich., and Frankie Ryff of New York, two 135-pounders who also figure among the top 10, clash at Miami tomorrow.

Giardello Set — Middleweights also will provide some of the excitement. Joey Giardello, who zoomed in the ratings by his knockout of Bobby Boyd, is matched with Charlie Cotton, who has beaten him twice, in a global gallop started and just six minutes before post time, as the horses paraded to the walkup start, a thunder shower struck. Those in the record Laurel crowd of 33,615 who were in the open scurried for cover.

On Video

The Sandy-Silvan match will be seen on television (Dumont) in some sections. Tomorrow's meeting of Ryff-Lane will be carried on ABC-TV and the heavyweight clash of Baker-Carter will be seen and heard on the regular Friday series on NBC.

Joe Culmone set a track record in 1950 when he rode 69 winners during 45 days at Atlantic City, N. J.

FROM PIGSKIN TO POLITICS—They didn't like the football coaching abilities of Johnny Cherberg and Howie Odell at the University of Washington and so both were fired. But the ex-coaches have made good in politics as Cherberg, who succeeded Odell as coach of the Huskies, has been elected lieutenant governor of the state and Odell has been named to a county commissioner's post in Seattle.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 11 (P) — Three conference titles were definitely decided over the last full weekend of the 1956 schoolboy football campaign.

Coal Twp., Pittsburgh Westinghouse and Lower Merion all copied league titles while in the WPIAL. AA a playoff will be necessary to select a successor to Aliquippa.

In the Eastern Conference, Swoyersville and St. Clair appeared almost certain to take honors in the northern and southern divisions and both have finished their seasons. Tyrone is rated a 483.

The Punxsutawney "groundhog" will decide the titlist. Tyrone can't climb any higher but if Punxsutawney wins Indiana's point total can go to 500. If Dubois wins, it

Episcopal House Of Bishops Opens Interim Session

Pocono Manor Meeting To Close Friday

By Paul Carlson

POCONO MANOR — The Episcopal House of Bishops was assured yesterday that its ties with the Polish National Catholic Church are becoming stronger "and will continue to bring good results if we remain united in sincere Christian love."

This belief was expressed by the Most Rev. Leon Grochowski of Scranton, prime bishop of the Polish National Church, which has 156 parishes and some 200,000 adherents in this country, as well as 200,000 members in Poland and 4,000 in Canada.

The primate made the statement as he and the Most Rev. Philip Carrington, Anglican archbishop of Quebec, were welcomed at the opening session of the 1956 interim meeting of the House of Bishops here yesterday afternoon.

"Even though we represent two denominations, spiritually we constitute one church," Bishop Grochowski told the House. "We are united by one faith and a brotherhood which is significant of a true Christian faith."

Since intercommunion was established between the two groups in 1947, he continued, "our coming closer has become more and more real."

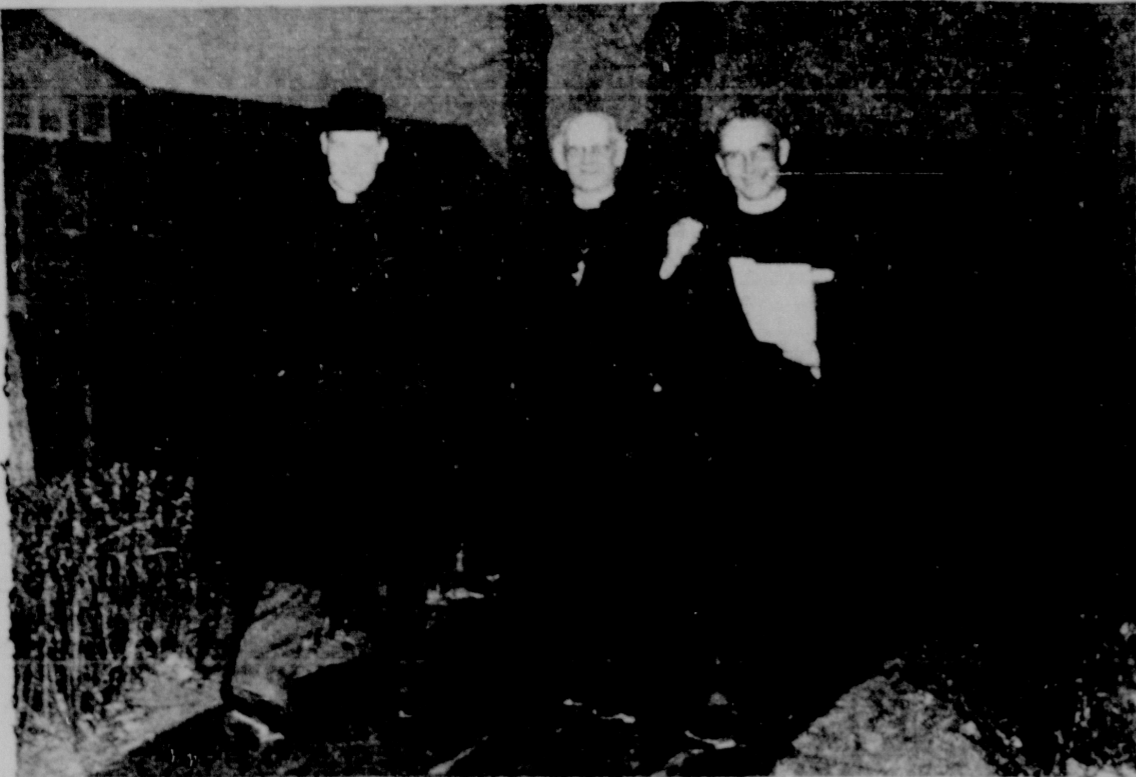

"This intercommunion is a real blessing especially for our church because we are actually just at the beginning of a movement whose chief aim is to break the shackles of spiritual slavery and return to that same kind of church which was given by Our Lord to His disciples."

"Although the Polish National Catholic Church is not a large institution, still we believe that it has a great future ahead," he stated.

Bishop Grochowski contended there are "many Catholics in Europe as well as in America who are dissatisfied with conditions prevailing in their churches."

"Millions, I shall not say hundreds or thousands, but millions of them severed relations with the church and do not practice Christian life at all, although these people long for religious life," the primate continued.

"A church modeled after that

TO THE BUSINESS AT HAND: The Most Rev. Philip Carrington (center), Anglican archbishop of Quebec, is accompanied to the first session of the 1956 interim meeting of the Episcopal House of Bishops by the Rt. Rev. David E. Richards (left), suffragan bishop of Albany, and the Rt. Rev. Donald J. Campbell, suffragan bishop of Los Angeles. The sessions began yesterday at Pocono Manor and will continue through Friday. of the Apostle Age can and should win those souls for Christ and His religion," Bishop Grochowski maintained. "This missionary work should and must be continued by our churches."

"I am happy that through intercommunion with the Episcopal Church in the United States and the Anglican Church in Canada we are able to unite our efforts to bring into effect the Christianity of the Apostle Age," he concluded.

Archbishop Carrington, who will conduct a "Quiet Day" for the prelates today, expressed "warmest greetings" to the House on behalf of the Anglican Church of Canada.

Both the archbishop and Bishop Grochowski were given "honorary seats" in the House.

A total 113 of the 189 prelates who compose the House answered the roll call when they were called to order yesterday afternoon by the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding bishop. It's expected that upwards to 160 bishops will register before the sessions end at noon Friday.

Following a brief period of worship and a memorial service for bishops who died since the last meeting, the House officially welcomed nine of the 10 prelates who were consecrated since the meeting of the General Convention in September, 1955.

Bishop Sherrill, in welcoming the new House members, noted that they were becoming part of "a very significant and very deep fellowship," which is characterized by "spiritual understanding, tolerance with conviction and Christian brotherhood."

The presiding prelate stated that a bishop is not viewed as a "monarch" or "ruler" in the Episcopal communion.

"Our concept cannot deny authority," he explained. "But it is the authority of leadership, rather than the authority of the letter of the law."

Bishop Sherrill said further that the "dominant note" in the Episcopal understanding of a bishop is "a pastoral one."

"Into that kind of episcopal ministry we welcome you," Bishop Sherrill told the recently-consecrated prelates.

The House received two letters of resignation yesterday. Both were referred to the Committee on the Resignation of Bishops.

The first came from the Rt. Rev. Frank A. Rhea, veteran missionary bishop of Idaho. The second came from the Rt. Rev. Norman S. Binsted, missionary bishop of the Philippines.

The House will consider the election of the successors to both of these veteran prelates. It will also consider creation of a new missionary district of Central America, and the appointment of a bishop for this area.

The denomination's National Council informed the House of Bishops that should the prelates establish a new missionary jurisdiction comprising the Republics of Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica, the National Council is "prepared to support such a program."

The bishops will also consider a memorial from the Diocese of Milwaukee to provide for a bishop of the Armed Forces.

In other action, the House adopted a resolution extending its "good wishes" to the Moravian Church on its 300th anniversary in 1957. These greetings will be conveyed at that time to the Moravian communion by the Rt. Rev. Frederick J. Warnecke, bishop of the Diocese of Bethlehem.

Bishop Warnecke officially welcomed the prelates on behalf of his diocese and informed them that in the diocesan Fellowship of Prayer this week each church is praying daily for the bishops and for God's guidance of their sessions.

Last night, Bishop Warnecke and his wife entertained the prelates and their wives at a reception. In the receiving line were the presiding bishop, the archbishop of Quebec and Mrs. Carrington, Rt. Rev. Frank W. Sterrett, retired bishop of Bethlehem, and Mrs. Sterrett. The clergy of the Diocese of Bethlehem and their wives also participated in the reception.

Boy Scouts List Projects For Winter

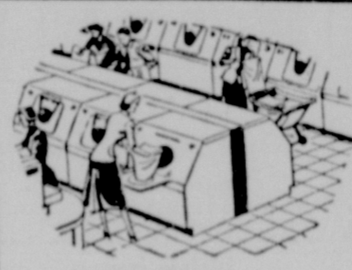

NEWFOUNDLAND — Patrol projects for the Fall and early Winter were selected at the weekly meeting of the Boy Scouts and Explorers of Newfoundland Troop 129 and its Explorer Post.

The Rattlesnake Patrol will work on lashing and rope work. The Flying Eagle Patrol will study signalling. The Wolf Patrol will concentrate on hiking, and the Beaver Patrol will study first aid.

At the completion of each project, the patrol will give a program concerning its study, for the benefit of the troop.

Swimming
A swimming meeting at Weston Field was planned for today. The boys will meet at the school at 8 p.m., to go together to the pool where they will swim from 9 until 10.

At the meeting this week, a review of the distribution work of "Get out the Vote" doorknob hangers was made. More than 600 hangers in the widely-scattered homes in the three townships included in the troop's general area were distributed.

BOROUGH COUNCIL held its monthly meeting in the firehall last week with all members present. Much consideration given to future work for flood prevention.

Mrs. Delbert Davis has been making trips to Philadelphia because of the illness of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Marino, who is confined to her bed following two weeks in the hospital for surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Long and Mrs. Clara Shireman of Easton and Mrs. Hans Flessler of Water Gap were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Layton Osborne, who were celebrating their wedding anniversary. Mrs. Osborne's birthday fell on election day and she also was born on election day.

Peter LaBar and Miss Linda LaBar were supper guests Thursday night at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Hauser.

The granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Chamberlain has been named Susan Elizabeth. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Chamberlain of Bevidere, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baker of Philadelphia spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Baker. The two couples motored to Watkins Glen to visit cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hathaway.

The Presbyterian Sunday School orchestra plans to furnish music for the Sunday school sessions. The members are Miss Annette Kulp, piano; Miss Eleanor Kulp and Miss Elsie Drake, flutes; Mrs. Francis Drake, trombone; Mrs. Herbert Buzzard, violin; Mr. Francis Drake, bass horn.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brinser, the former Elsie Voigt of Philadelphia, were in Water Gap the day after their wedding, receiving the congratulations of their friends before they left on a trip to Philadelphia, New York and other places. Mr. Brinser has a summer shop on Foxtown Hill road for the sale of his lawn pottery.

The indoor picnic of the Presbyterian Church was postponed because of last minute delay in securing the picture that was to be shown.

Mrs. H. W. Brodhead is moving from Broad St. to her apartment on Seventh St. in Stroudsburg. That leaves Frank Brodhead as the only one who keeps the Brodhead name here in a village. For almost all the time since Water Gap was founded, Brodhead has been the name of the majority of families living here and leading its church, social and business activities. The Hauser Brothers of the Mountain House, Clifford Hauser and Harold B. Crossdale, still living here, are direct descendants of the Brodheads.
